Amethyst Hill Nursery

Quercifolia—Commonly referred to as the Oakleaf hydrangea for its oak tree shaped leaves. This hydrangea is a larger growing hydrangea that does especially well in hot, humid areas. Blooms are conical and creamy white in color. Hardy to zone 5. The leaves turn rusty red in the fall to give a wonderful season ending show.

Group 2—Quercifolia, Alice, Alison

Group 3—Amethyst, Ellen Huff, Harmony, Ice Crystal, Little Honey, Munchkin, Pee Wee, Queen of Hearts, Ruby Slippers, Snow Cloud, Snow Giant, Snow Flake, Snow Queen, Sykes Dwarf

Serrata—This variety is usually a smaller, slender-stemmed, but lush growing and fully blooming hydrangea. Most often, the blooms are not pH sensitive but give a mixture of colors that change as they age. Cold hardy to zone 6, BUT survive late frosts better and are more drought resistant than macrophylla varieties.

Group 1—Beni-Gaku, Blue Bird, Grayswood

Group 2—Blue Billow, Blue Deckle, Preziosa

Group 3—Akishino Temari, Amacha, Amagi-Amacha, Beni, Chishima, Diaden, Hokaido, Golden Sunlight, Hallasan, Intermedia, Komachi (Pretty Maiden), Kiyosumi, Kurohime, Little Geisha, Maiko, Midoriboshi-Temari, Miranda, Miyama yae Murasaki (Purple Tiers), O Amacha Nishki, Omacha, Painter's Palette, Shinonome, Shirofuji, Shirotae, Shishiva, Tiara, Tuff Stuff™, Yae No Amacha, Yuki Temari
